The appearance of leather can be influenced by various factors, such as lighting and the amount of handling. This characteristic is what makes a leather product so unique. The ageing process enhances its richness and depth, creating a distinct character and custom look that cannot be replicated. Although we strive to accurately show our leather options in the images, it isn't always possible to capture it precisely. Clients with a very particular taste are invited to visit our workshop and choose from physical samples to avoid disappointment. Let's embrace the beauty of leather as it changes and reflects your personal journey.
